Singapore - November 5, 2025 -

Mediaboostr, a PR technology platform designed for startups and SMEs, today announced its official launch. The platform aims to make brand exposure and credibility accessible through simplified submission tools and media partnerships, addressing how AI search now prioritises trusted sources.

Startups often struggle to earn visibility online without the resources of large PR agencies. Mediaboostr bridges that gap by offering automated submission and editorial review features that make media visibility faster and more affordable, without compromising quality or compliance.

"Traditional SEO strategies are no longer enough. AI systems rely on verified, trusted sources to decide which brands appear in their responses." said Maxime B., founder of Mediaboostr. "We've seen too many startups spend time and money chasing visibility without realising that search engines and AI models now rely on media authority signals.
